

The Openwork Partnership achieves Good Business Charter accreditation

We're thrilled to announce that we've been awarded Good Business Charter (GBC) accreditation. This recognition highlights our commitment to responsible business practices across ten key areas, including: diversity, equity and inclusion (DEI); environmental responsibility; fair treatment of suppliers; and employee wellbeing.

GBC accreditation underscores our dedication to operating responsibly and sustainably, ensuring that we care for our employees, clients, suppliers and the environment.

We had to meet all ten of the GBC's standards which reflect our core values of working together, doing the right thing and believing in our collective ability to make a real difference.

The Openwork Foundation has been the beating heart of our business since we were first created. Our longstanding culture of working in partnership to create positive impacts really helped us when it came to achieving GBC accreditation.

Our Foundation will continue to play a vital role as our business grows and our ability to make positive impacts increases.

We're incredibly proud of this achievement, and we want to say a huge thank you to everyone who made it happen. Together, we're making the difference.

The Good Business Charter is a simple accreditation which organisations of all sizes in the UK can apply for in recognition of responsible business practices. Accredited organisations include FTSE100 companies, partnerships, local authorities, universities, SMEs, charities and sole traders. An organisation must meet all 10 commitments to receive GBC Accreditation.
